

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Acella Construction Selected by Northeastern University to renovate labs

NORWELL, MA. (December 14, 2009)—Acella Construction Corporation announced today that it was selected to renovate 2 labs for Northeastern University. The work performed will include all new mechanical and electrical systems, finishes, and wall reconfigurations. Both fast-track renovation projects will run concurrently, and are scheduled to be completed by January 15th. These will be the 9th and 10th renovation projects that Acella Construction has been selected to manage for Northeastern University, further strengthening its long-term relationship with the school.

About Acella Construction Corporation

Acella Construction Corporation, located in Norwell, MA., is a construction management firm specializing in full service turn-key construction, design-build, pre-construction and program management services for a wide-range of markets. For more information, please visit www.acellaconstruction.com.

###